OUR RULES OF BUSINESS

IMPORTANT NOTICE:—When comparing our prices with others, please remember our goods are shipped to you, PREPAID. Note very carefully the ratings by the American Iris Society, of the Iris we offer. Orders filled in rotation as received. All orders booked subject to stock being unsold and crop failure. We offer no mixtures or collections and do not substitute. As soon as our shipping season closes and orders then on hand are filled, we plant back in the field all surplus bulbs. Order early to avoid disappointment. Your order will be held when requested and shipped when desired. Our stocks are large but some varieties are limited.

TERMS

Cash with order. No C. O. D. shipments. Remit way most convenient for you.

PRICES

Prices quoted include packing and shipping charges to your nearest Express or Post Office. We reserve the right to ship way best for us. Unless each price is listed, not less than 3 of a variety sold. Not less than 10 at the rate. 50 are sold at the 100 rate. No order accepted of less than $5.00 for Bearded Iris. (Beardless may be included.) No order accepted of less than $5.00 for Daffodils. (Other bulbs than the two Iris above may be included). Special prices upon application for larger quantities of all bulbs listed.

GUARANTEE

We guarantee our stock to be true to name and free of all diseases and insect pests, and to reach you in first class growing condition. Please notify us at once when otherwise.

DELIVERY

Beardless and Bearded Iris: July 1st to Oct. 1st. Orders for extreme south shipped later if requested. Daffodils and other blubs: Sept. 1st to Oct. 15th. No claims or complaints will be entertained unless made promptly upon receipt of goods.

QUALITY

For our planting we have imported Daffodils and other bulbs annually from Europe for several years. We have proven to our entire satisfaction, that we can produce bulbs here that are SUPERIOR in every way to the European product. The ideal climate of Puget Sound with the rich virgin sandy silt loam found on many of our rivers and streams is especially adapted to the culture and production of these bulbs. This has also been proven by the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture at Bellingham, Wash.

Of course some people are growing these bulbs in locations and on soil entirely unfit for them. Some are also unfamiliar with their requirements and the proper way to cure and grade their stock. No doubt but some inferior bulbs will reach the market and give dissatisfaction.

THE GOLDEN DAFFODILS

Perhaps no other indication of Spring gives us quite the delicious thrill as the first peeping green shoots of the Daffodils. They are too easily grown to call forth the glowing enthusiasm to which they are justly entitled. They ask for no attendants or special culture, yet grow on year after year, blooming in profusion and increasing in beauty and numbers as well as value.

Naturalising bulbs of many kinds is becoming very popular and for this purpose Daffodils, as well as other smaller and earlier bulbs offered in this list, are unexcelled. When planted in lightly shaded woodlands, rough out-lying parts of the grounds, or among shrubbery, they thrive and multiply and soon form large colonies. When planted this way, enough of a variety should be used to insure a distinct effect before passing on to the next sort. Twenty-five to a hundred bulbs make an excellent group.

Nearly all Daffodils thrive in full sun, yet all will stand some shade. Also the varieties with soft yellow or scarlet cups, hold their colors much longer and better when given partial shade. A good rule is: the lighter the flower the more shade it enjoys. The light colored varieties of the Incomparabilis, Barrii Leedsii, Poeticus and White Trumpet groups, all delight in partially shady places. The Poeticus are best for planting around ponds, or along the banks of a stream, or other generally damp location. Emperor, Olympia and Princeps are excellent also. The bulbs and roots we offer should be suitable for culture in practically all parts of the U. S. except perhaps the extreme south. The best time to plant (except Bearded Iris) is Sept. or Oct. Good results are even obtained by planting up to late Nov. But earlier the better and during dry weather if possible. They mostly prefer a light gritty soil, but any good garden loam will do. The situation must be well drained so that no water stands over them at any time.

The best way to plant is: Remove the soil from the area to be planted to a depth of 8-12 inches. Fill in plenty of old rotted manure and raw bone meal. Spade and mix this well and deeply into the subsoil, then smooth off and cover with an inch or so of clean soil or sand. Set the bulbs on this 3-8 inches apart depending on size. The top of bulbs when set should be 3-4 inches below ground level. Cover with good top-soil to which no fertilizer has been added. Some Daffodils make enormous bulbs, others like the Jonquils are very small. An open space should be left between the bulbs of three times their diameter.

In the fall a mulch of old manure is very beneficial. Where this cannot be had, light compost to which potash and good phosphate has been added is excellent. This is also good for placing under bulbs when planting. In the spring when the flower buds first appear, a few applications of very weak liquid fertilizer gives largest exhibition blooms. In the culture of bulbs the use of fertilizers containing a large amount of nitrogen should be avoided, this produces rank foliage and fewer blooms.

In very cold sections, bulbs planted other where than in grass should have a winter covering of straw, leaves or other litter applied after the ground has frozen.

In good soil with an annual top-dressing, these bulbs can usually be left for three or four years before they become too crowded to bloom well. When lifting is necessary do it directly after the foliage turns yellow. Store the clumps as they come from the ground in a dry shady place until they dry (about one month,) then separate and remove the old coats and tops and store away until planting time.

We use the classification adopted by the Royal Horticultural Society of England, which divides this genus into twelve distinct groups. Some confusion exists in regards to the proper name. Narcissus is the Latin and Daffodil is the English or common name; either is correct. The Jonquils are a smaller group (Div. 7) with slender rush-like foliage. All our bulbs are sterilized in accordance with the rules promulgated by the Federal Horticultural Board. Each shipment bears a Federal certificate to this effect.

We are growing several new and rare varieties of which our stock is not large enough to list. Also many varieties imported under special permit, which will not be released for sale until two more seasons.

This year our prices are based on special stock. These are the selected, top size, round bulbs of the 1927 crop. They have been grown the past season under ideal conditions and will give blooms of the highest quality the first season, in your garden. We can supply in limited numbers, most of the varieties listed here in special exhibition stock; heavy nosed mother bulbs at prices about 25% higher. But for general planting we do not recommend this heavy grade as the regu-stock offered, is ideal. All orders for this heavy grade must be on hand by July 20th, as these are dug and cured to order only.

In describing a Daffodil bloom, the outer row of petals are termed the perianth (P), the inner part is termed trumpet (T), crown or cup, depending on the length.

DIVISION 10—Double Varieties

ALBA PLENA ODORATA. The double Poeticus. Resembles a Gardenia. Fragrant, full double blooms of purest white. Glorious when well grown. Prefers a heavy soil and cool, damp situation. Extremely late—with Recurvus the last to bloom. 22 to 28 ins. 3 for 40c, 10 for $1.00, 100 for $7.50.

Orange Phoenix. "Eggs and Bacon". P. sulphur yellow. Small very double center of deep orange. Color varies in different soils. Very good. Early midseason. 22 ins. 3 for 40c, 10 for $1.00, 100 for $8.50.

PRIMROSE PHOENIX. New. Enormous, full, double, rose shaped blooms of bright primrose. A magnificent variety. Early. 20 to 22 ins. 50c each, 3 for $1.25, 10 for $4.00.

SILVER PHOENIX. "Codlins and Cream." A counter-part of the above except color, which is silvery white, deepening to sulphur at the center. Height and season same. These two varieties delight in a light or gritty soil. Very fine. 3 for 40c, 10 for $1.00, 100 for $8.50.

Von Sion. Golden yellow. The only double Long Trumpet variety. Trumpet long and very full double. Very early—one of the first to bloom. Very good. 16 to 18 ins. 3 for 40c, 10 for $1.00, 100 for $8.50.

LILIES

Our stock of Hardy Lilies, over 80 species and varieties, will not be offered for another season.

THE BEARDED IRIS

(Pogoniris)

America's most popular perennial. No other flower is more easily grown, or so adapted to such a wide range of soil and climatic conditions. They thrive almost anywhere in the U. S. No special culture is required. The essential requirement being a situation that is in full sun and well drained. Very little attention is required except a resetting about every fourth year. Of course more and larger flowers are produced if they are cultivated and watered when needed.

The uses for Iris are numerous. In the rock-garden and herbaceous border, along walks, drives, fences and shrubbery borders and near the water-side, suitable locations are to be found. Wonderful landscape effects may be secured by planting in broad masses along the margin of a stream or pond, or in out-laying parts of the grounds. The Dwarf and Intermediate varieties are excellent for rock-work and edging and for planting in front of the taller kinds. Plant Iris where other plants refuse to grow. On poor soil or dry gravelly banks, they will stand the test of almost any location that is sunny.

The best time to plant is immediately after blooming, the sooner the better. This enables the plants to make sufficient root growth before winter and insures blooming the following season.

Sprinkle a heaping handfull of hydrated lime and two of raw bone meal to each square yard to be planted. Spade and mix this well with the soil, pulverize all lumps until the soil is fine and mellow. Set the plants on top of this and spread out the old roots, these will grow no more but serve as an anchor. Barely cover the rhizomes and press the soil down firmly. Give two or three soakings of water just after planting, then water sparingly until they start to grow. All Bearded Iris love lime and commercial fertilizer rich in phosphate and potash. They loathe manure in any form. The first winter after planting they should have a slight covering of straw or litter that will not pack down too close, this is merely to prevent heaving out by frost.

For massing we advise single rhizomes set a foot apart each way, they will soon spread and cover the entire surface. For specimen clumps and quick effect use three or more plants. Set 6 to 10 inches apart, cut ends facing in.

New varieties are introduced so fast that no one can grow them all. We are constantly trying new varieties, and any that prove to be real improvements and grow well under ordinary conditions, will be added to our list. We have grown all the varieties of our list for at least three seasons, and fully recommend them.

Our descriptions are partly from the bulletins of the American Iris Society, but chiefly from our own observations in the field. The latter especially in regards to height and blooming season. The three upright petals of an Iris bloom are termed standards (S), the three lower or drooping ones falls (F). The beard (B) is not mentioned except when very conspicuous. The figures preceding the name of a variety is the Official rating of the A. I. S. on a score of 100 as perfection. The name of originator and date of introduction follow. Where no number precedes the name, that variety has not yet been voted on. All new varieties must be registered and grown for five years before being rated.

Our prices are based on top size, selected single rhizomes. This has been proven the best for planting. No larger or finer roots are obtainable anywhere. Some varieties make much larger rhizomes than others. If planted early and properly, 60 to 75% will bloom the next season. This is a good average regardless of any grower's claims. The first season's blooms will be typical of the variety but not so large or tall as after the plant is well established. The four foot giants are often only 2½ to 3 feet the first year. Many other varieties while good growers, are slower to bloom than others. While hardy as oaks on Puget Sound, the following varieties are reported difficult in the extremely cold sections of the U. S.: Crusader, Leverrier, Magnifica and Mlle. Schwartz. Each of these is a masterpiece and well worthy of the required extra protection. We are absolutely against spring planting of Iris and will positively not ship until after the blooming season. Special prices on large quantities for landscaping and cut flowers.

Outstanding varieties in Capital Letters.

The American Iris Society

We strongly advise all lovers of flowers and Iris in particular, to join the Society. Four valuable and interesting bulletins are issued each year. The new member also receives "Iris for the Beginner."

Dues are $3.00 per year; three years $8.50. Send us your check, or direct to the Secretary, J. B. Wallace, Jr., 129 Church St., New Haven, Conn.

DWARF BEARDED IRIS

Outstanding Varieties in Capital Letters.

The origin of these lovely little Iris is so uncertain and the ratings so unjust, that we will omit these details. They form low handsome mats of foliage four to eight inches high and with us are practically evergreen. The fair sized blooms are borne on short stems and in great profusion during late March and most of April. They are perfectly hardy and increase rapidly. All are excellent for edgings and rock-work. Culture is the same as for the larger sorts.

INTERMEDIATE BEARDED IRIS

These are hybrids between the Dwarf Bearded and Tall Bearded varieties. They bloom just after the dwarfs and before the taller and later ones. They are very useful for continuing the blooming season. All are profuse blooming and thrive under the same conditions as the later ones. All varieties listed here should be rated ten points higher. No collection is complete without some of this group and the Dwarfs.

Species of TALL BEARDED IRIS

This section is composed of a few choice selected wild species of the old Germatic group, the origin of which is obscure. They are chiefly natives of Asia Minor and southern Europe. Also the ancestors of our present day aristocrats. They bloom very early, with the later Intermediates and are valuable for landscaping and cut flowers.

- 73 ALBICANS. Milk white. Extra early. Likely the same as Florentina. 24 to 28 ins. 3 for 50c, 10 for $1.25.
- 78 AMAS. Mammoth blooms. S. deep blue. F. deep purple. Very early. 28 ins. 3 for 50c, 10 for $1.25.

- 89 CRIMSON KING. Deep velvety red purple. Very fine. Also a fall bloomer with us. Early. 30 ins. 3 for 75c, 10 for $2.00.
- 70 FLAVESCENS. Palest sulphur yellow. Later. Very good. 32 ins. 3 for 50c, 10 for $1.25.
- 73 JUNONIA. S. soft blue. F. darker. Extra large and fine. Similar to Caterina but a better grower. 40 ins. 3 for 50c, 10 for $1.25.
- 78 KOCHI. Rich claret purple. Extra early and choice. Also sold under other names. 28 ins. 3 for 50c, 10 for $1.25.
- 77 MAJOR. S. violet blue. F. deep purple. Excellent. Very early. 30 ins. 3 for 50c, 10 for $1.25.

BEARDLESS IRIS

This specie is especially adapted to most situations, although they thrive in the open garden. The blooms are borne freely on tall graceful stems, well above the dense grass-like foliage. They bloom with the very late Tall Bearded varieties. Seldom bloom well the first season. Water well until established. These dislike lime. We send strong large divisions.

- ORIENTALIS, BLUE KING. Deep purplish blue. 42 ins. 35c each.
- ORIENTALIS, SNOW QUEEN. Pure white. 42 ins. 35c.
- SIBERICA, EMPEROR. Deep violet blue. 48 ins. 75c each.
- SIBERICA, GEO. WALLACE... Sky-blue. F. marked white. 42 ins. 35c each.
- SIBERICA, ..GRANDIS. Violet-blue, reticulated white. 48-60 ins. 35c each.
- SIBERICA, PERRY'S BLUE. Porcelain-blue. 75c each.

THE BULBOUS IRIS

If given a light winter covering the species we offer are perfectly hardy. They are excellent for beds and borders and are unexcelled for cutting. Plant in Sept. or Oct. 3-4 ins. deep and 4-6 ins. apart, in any good, well drained garden loam. Their preference is a light soil that contains plenty of sand. The Dutch and Spanish groups should be planted in open and sunny situations. After blooming, water should be withheld so that the bulbs will ripen properly. The English will stand partial shade and a heavier and more damp situation than the other two. Also these do not need to be dried off after blooming.

SPANISH IRIS

24-30 ins.

- A. VON HUMBOLDT. Deep blue. 10 for $1.00, 100 for $7.00.

- PRINCE OF WALES. Rich violet blue. 10 for $1.00, 100 for $8.00.

MISCELLANEOUS EARLY SPRING FLOWERING BULBS

HIGHEST QUALITY SELECTED IMPORTED BULBS

These charming little dwarfs are the first to bloom and are too well known to need describing. All are perfectly hardy and thrive almost anywhere. They are invaluable for edging and rock-work, also for naturalizing in grass, or among the shrubbery and under trees.

"They cost little, expect little and give a great deal."

Plant in Sept. or Oct. in full sun or partial shade. Any good well drained garden soil will do. Not sold in less numbers than noted.

Essential Points to Keep in Mind

That bulbs will not bloom the next season, unless the foliage is allowed to ripen.

That grass in which bulbs are planted, must on no account be cut, until the foliage turns yellow.

That bulbs may be carefully lifted, immediately after blooming and heeled-in, in an out-of-way place until the foliage ripens.

That in planting; Manure must not come in contact with the bulbs, mix with raw bone meal and work deeply into the subsoil under them. Old manure is excellent over bulbs after planting.

That bulbs should be planted in dry weather and for best results, lifted, divided and transplanted every third or fourth year.

That bulbs should have a winter covering applied after the ground has frozen.

That a planting of bulbs is permanent, the first cost is all. They are an investment that increases year after year.

CANYON CREEK LODGE

Granite Falls is on the paved highway, 50 miles north of Seattle and 17 north and east of Everett. Canyon Creek Lodge, one of the most popular and scenic resorts on Puget Sound, is four miles east of Granite Falls. Our entire stock of bulbs, acres of them, are now growing here. Visitors are welcome at both the Lodge and Nursery. The Daffodils are at their best about Easter Sunday; Iris about Decoration Day. Lilies are in bloom from May 1st to November.

You Are Cordially Invited.
